PROSPECTS OF STORMY SESSIONS
FACE LEGISLATORS AFTER RECESS

Hearing on Blaine Tax Bill to Follow Wet and Dry Battle
on April 11

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—Legislators come back to Madison Wednesday to face the tangled problems that developed during the closing days before the Easter recess. With preliminaries cleared out of the way by ten weeks' activity, members are now determined that the actual accomplishments of the session are to be.

So many issues have been injected into the general controversy in both houses, that the result of most of the legislative battles is entirely in doubt. Taxation, prohibition, the eight-hour day, the national guard appropriation, unemployment insurance, and highway legislation all remain unsettled problems.

Prohibition has suddenly become the outstanding issue in the assembly, the leaders generally say. Hermon Eschweiler, Madison, administration floor leader, declared that all important legislation will become entangled in the wet and dry fight. John L. Dahl, the speaker, recognizes this, too, he says. Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, dry leader, places responsibility for the situation on Governor Blaine, who took an exceedingly strong stand for the first time, in his special message to the legislature last week.

Dry Fight Due April 11
It is the hope of most of the leaders of the lower house that the prohibition issue can be disposed of April 11, when the so-called bill, drastically amending the coach and garage section of the State constitution, comes up for consideration. This bill, understood to have the sanction of Governor Blaine, would emasculate the state liquor law, and make enforcement, impossible, the dry assert.

The wet and dry battle in the assembly will be staged April 11, to be followed on April 12, by public hearing on Governor Blaine's income tax bill, another subject of very heated controversy. There is a belief expressed by assemblymen that the attitude expressed by the governor on the prohibition issue, will trigger the effect assembly action on the administration tax bill, should that measure go through the senate. Here the factional fight between the governor and speaker Dahl will break out afresh, assemblymen say.

The upper house attack on the assembly bill providing for an eight-hour day in Wisconsin industry, will open tomorrow when the measure is heard in the state affairs committee. Opposition to this proposal by several progressive republican senators, is expected to result in its defeat when it reaches the floor.

Job Insurance in Doubt
Then will come the proposal for unemployment insurance, still held in the judiciary committee of the senate. Proponents of this measure are persistent to lead the legislature with petitions favoring this plan shortly before it is decided to bring it to the floor. A favorable committee recommendation is looked for, but the content on the floor is much in doubt.

The national guard appropriation, a subject of considerable controversy, is being shaped by the joint finance committee. Senator H. J. Severson has a bill in the upper house to reorganize the guard.

BENTLEY WINDS UP CAMPAIGN MONDAY NIGHT WITH TALK

Delivers Final Address of Campaign for Re-election at Concordia Hall

REVIEWS ISSUES; DENIES HE SUPPORTED THE TITUS BILL

Launches into Usual Attack on Tribune and its Policies

MAYOR A. A. Bentley closed his speaking campaign for re-election with a meeting at Concordia hall Monday night. The hall was crowded.

He opened his talk, as usual, with regrets over the bitterness which has developed during the campaign, and with the expressed regret over the reflections which he claimed had been cast upon his official honesty. "My official honesty can easily be verified by consulting the records at the city hall," he said.

He said, again, that he had been friendly to organized labor during his eight years in office, and that one of the biggest issues in the campaign at present is whether or not the union men of the city are going to appreciate his years of service enough to re-elect him.

Asks Re-election
He also asked re-election on the grounds of the various innovations and improvements which have been introduced during the past eight years, among them being the printing of real estate assessments, cutting leading for worn out streets, assessing only half of the cost of new paving to abating property owners, purchasing of city bonds from the sinking fund, issuance by the city of serial bonds, and the comprehensive school improvement program and the 26 mill tax rate which is now in effect in the city.

The mayor reviewed the issues which he had raised in previous speeches, and admitted that he had made mistakes during the time that he has held office. "It has been pointed out to me," he said, "that my most serious mistakes were in the appointments that I made, and I believe they were. I appointed Fred Hartwell and Harry Taggart to the police and fire commission because a secret ballot of the Trades and Labor council showed them to be the choice of that body. I thought they were good men at that time, and they are, except in this campaign."

Denies Lobbying
Mayor Bentley flatly denied having gone to Madison to lobby for the Titus bill, a bill designed to lower the working age limit of children, as was charged in a head-bill circulated by the Verchota forces on Monday. The head-bill republished a copy of a certified committee record from the legislature, listing Bentley as a lobbyist for the bill, but the mayor said that he had never gone to Madison in favor of the bill, and asserted that he had put it up to the council, and when they went on record as being opposed to it, he abided by their wishes.

He launched into his usual attack on the Tribune and its policies, declaring that if he believed he would win all a mayor can do is start another daily paper in La Crosse. He continued saying that for eight years "the papers of the state have been filled with the achievements of Bentley and the La Crosse council, but not once in the eight years has the Tribune had a good word to say for the mayor."

REGENT RESIGNS
CASHMAN SLATED

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Edward W. Miller, formerly of Marinette, the new United States district attorney for eastern Wisconsin with headquarters in Milwaukee, has resigned from the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin. Under the law it is understood Attorney Miller's new position made it necessary that he tender his resignation.

Cashman to be Named?
MADISON, Wis.—The report is circulated here that Senator John Cashman, Denmark, will be named by the governor as a successor to Mr. Miller as a member of the board of university regents.

This appointment will give Governor Blaine seven out of the fifteen members of the board of university regents. While seven of the thirteen appointive members will have been named by the governor, President Borge and John Callahan, superintendent of public instruction, both vote as ex-officio members of the board.

La Crosse Mourns Passing of Popular Young Woman

Mrs. Warren D. Leary, nee Mary Frances Evans, the elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Evans, who died at St. Francis hospital Monday morning, was born in La Crosse on December 20, 1883. She was educated in the public schools of this city and was graduated with honors from the La Crosse high school in 1910.

Immediately after her graduation she left for Europe with her mother where she spent a year. The first six months was spent in traveling in the British Isles and on the continent. In December of that year she became a student in the convent of Notre Dame de Sion in Antwerp. Here she devoted herself to the study of French and music.

In the fall of 1911 she entered Trinity College of Notre Dame du Namur in Washington, D. C. While at Trinity she endeavored herself to a large circle of friends. After graduating from Trinity she entered the School of Journalism at Columbia University, New York City.

The following year she spent at home and when the great war came to America she threw herself heart and soul into Red Cross and Council of Defense work. She served wherever the demand required.

She worked with the Red Cross and was assigned to Base Hospital 22. In March, 1918, she sailed for France with this, the Wisconsin hospital unit. They were stationed at Bordeaux during the continuation of the war. In the spring of 1919, Miss Evans contracted influenza and pneumonia. At the time little hope was held that she would recover and she was invalided home to the United States, much depleted in strength. Those who knew her best felt that it was in France that she paid the supreme sacrifice for her country.

On the twenty-first of October, 1919, Mary Frances Evans became the bride of Warren Denis Leary of New York City. The ceremony was performed at St. Mary's church in this city.

For some time after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Leary lived in New York; later they moved to Grand Mere, Quebec, where Mr. Leary edited a French-English paper for the Laurentide Company, Limited.

Since January, 1922, they have resided in Chippewa Falls, Wis., where Mr. Leary has acquired an interest in the Chippewa Daily Gazette. There, as everywhere, Mrs. Leary endeavored herself to many friends to whom news of her illness and death comes as a great shock.

Mrs. Leary is survived by her husband, and two children, Warren, Jr., seven months old, and Katharine, two and a half years of age; her father and mother Dr. and Mrs. Edward Evans; a sister, Miss Jessie Evans, a student at Trinity College, Washington, D. C.; and four brothers, James, Arthur, Edward and Joseph.

The funeral will be held at 8:30 from the residence of her parents, 121 south Thirteenth street, and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

Prayers for the deceased will be said at the home of her parents Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock.

Friends are asked to omit flowers.

TURKS DEMAND TAX ON FOOD SUPPLIES
DISTRIBUTED BY U. S.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—By The Associated Press.—The Turkish customs authorities Tuesday refused to permit the Near East Relief to continue distribution of foodstuffs to the 25,000 destitute and hungry refugees in Constantinople unless the American organization paid the new consumption tax, which is four times as great as the import duty. It was announced by Near East representatives.

The Turkish functionaries declared that they were powerless to interfere with the orders from Ankara. The amount of tax involved on food supplies is $15,000.

REPORTS HOOVER

WASHINGTON.—The country's present business boom is on a sound foundation, Secretary Hoover said Tuesday, and there is good reason to expect a long continuance of prosperity.

"The business condition is marked just now by the fact that the goods are not accumulating," the secretary said. "Although production is at a high point, consumption is equaling it. Likewise prices are not showing the runaway tendencies that we witnessed during war time and immediately after."

MAYORALTY CONTEST HOLDS
CENTER OF THE STAGE TODAY

Elaborate Preparations Made to Get Out Votes in Various Wards

An unusually heavy vote was cast in practically all wards of the city in the municipal election during the morning, according to reports received at noon from various precincts.

That the vote cast for city officers today will be between 20 and 50 per cent larger than that recorded in the primaries two weeks ago was the confident prediction of ward workers who scanned the poll lists at noon and took cognizance of the elaborate preparations made to get out the vote during the afternoon and early evening hours in practically all wards in the city.

Starting in early this morning automobiles were busy in all sections of the city carrying voters to the polls. Many of those conveyed by car to vote were ill or infirm.

Principal interest in the election today centers in the contest for mayor, with both the Bentley and Verchota forces claiming victory for their candidates.

The polls will close at 8 o'clock tonight.

Vote in State Light

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—With rain falling throughout Wisconsin and general absence of interest in the election, Tuesday's election promised to be very quiet throughout Wisconsin.

The lack of opposition in a number of judicial contests including that of a justice of the supreme court, confines the interest pretty much to local contests for municipal offices.

In Milwaukee, interest chiefly centers in the election of seven school directors and a circuit court judge, there being opposition in only one judicial contest here.

The early vote was extremely light.

ESCANABA, Mich.—With snow drifting eight feet deep in places and approximately eight inches of snow falling in the past twenty-four hours, Kacanaba and the entire Upper Michigan peninsula found itself confronted with more snow than at any time this winter. In addition to the snow a drizzling April shower has coated several streets with a thick layer of ice, which Monday caused a temporary tie-up of interurban service between Escanaba and Gladstone. According to traction officials, the ice coating caused the most serious damage to the service in six years.

Railroad reports Tuesday indicated that all traffic between Escanaba and Sault Ste. Marie had been tied up due to the sleet and snow.

PUT TO DEATH FOR ALLEGED TREASON

Vicar General Butchkavitch Executed on Saturday Moscow Newspapers Report

PRELATE CONVICTED OF TREASON WITH SIXTEEN OTHER CHURCHMEN

Used Position to Carry on War Against State is Charge

MOSCOW.—By The Associated Press.—Vicar General Butchkavitch has been executed.

The Pravda says the execution occurred on March 31. The newspaper Izvestia asserts: "The sentence of death on Butchkavitch, whose reprieve was refused, has been carried out." The time and place are not given.

Monsignor Butchkavitch met death before a firing squad.

The Izvestia prints the announcement on an inside page under a headline head in its court news department. In the Pravda the execution is noted briefly without comment in a column of local news.

The details of the prelate's execution probably will never be revealed. Judging from what has happened in previous cases, it is thought probable that after the executive committee had refused to reprieve him, he was removed from the prison in which his colleagues were confined to the prison for the condemned and that there, after the death sentence had been read to him, he was executed. This is the general procedure in the swift and quiet carrying out of the death penalty.

CONVICTED OF TREASON

Constantine Butchkavitch, vicar general of the Russian Catholic church in Russia, was sentenced to death on March 26 after he and sixteen other prelates, including Archbishop Zenkovich, had been found guilty of opposing the Soviet government. The Russian central executive committee, meeting last Thursday night to consider appeals made in behalf of the ecclesiastical, denied clemency in the case of Monsignor Butchkavitch, asserting that he had "used his position as a priest to carry on a direct and active state treason."

The committee at the same time commuted to ten years' imprisonment the death sentence imposed on the archbishop.

News that Monsignor Butchkavitch would have to pay the extreme penalty created a stir in many lands. Soviet officials since last Friday had professed ignorance as to the final outcome of the case, and last Saturday afternoon Commissioner of Justice Kurok told correspondents that the death sentence had not been carried out yet.

The prelates were charged in general with carrying on widespread propaganda against the Russian government and were alleged to have incited the people against the communist regime.

Appeals are Denied

Appeals from the outside world, which had poured in upon the Soviet authorities, had no effect in staying the hands of their executors. Competent opinion, indeed, is that even the breaking of diplomatic relations by outside governments or a threat of war would not have moved the Moscow officials from their course.

The last word in the case had been spoken. It appears when the commuted to ten years' imprisonment the death sentence upon Archbishop Zenkovich, convicted at the same time as Vicar General Butchkavitch.

Protests from all parts of the world were made against the execution of the death sentence, the American government joining in the appeals for clemency.

The protest of the American state department was based on humanitarian grounds and set forth "the earnest hope that the life of the vicar general might be spared."

Monsignor Butchkavitch was father superior of the church of St. Catherine in Petrograd. He held the title of prelate to his holiness, granted by the pope for special services. He was 55 years old and came from an old and wealthy family of Polish origin, although he himself was a Russian citizen.

JOE VERCHOTA IN FINAL ASSAULT ON BENTLEY'S "IDEAS"

Reveals Real Source of Most of Innovations Mayor Claims as His Own

JOE FRISCH GIVEN CREDIT FOR ASSESSMENT BOOK IDEA

Taggart Shows Bentley a Contributor to His Credit Bureau

FURTHER threads into the "I did" program of Mayor A. A. Bentley were made by J. J. Verchota, also a candidate for mayor, in his closing campaign speech in Union hall Monday evening. Several hundred interested citizens, including about a dozen women attended the wind-up of the Verchota campaign despite the inclement weather.

Aligning all of the "innovations," "ideas," "programs" and other high spots in municipal affairs for which Mayor Bentley has claimed credit for originating, Mr. Verchota, quoting from the mayor's own campaign literature received in every home in La Crosse on Monday by mail, "gave credit where credit is due," proceeded to give credit for the "innovations" or "ideas."

Joe Frisch Given Credit

"You have heard the mayor tell about his plan for the printing of the city assessment roll," declared Mr. Verchota. "Well, do you know whose idea it was? It was Mr. Joseph Frisch's. Mr. Frisch, the tax commissioner, Mr. Frisch heard what a town down in New York state had been doing and mentioned it to the mayor. The mayor grabbed it as his own idea."

"In 1915 Alderman Paul Mahoney introduced a resolution in the common council authorizing the issuing of serial bonds for the north side Junior high school. The resolution was referred to a committee and later 'died' in the committee's hands. The serial bond idea was suggested first by Robert Lowry of the Exchange State bank, a member of the school board. Later Mayor Bentley grabbed on to this plan as his idea."

"A group of six aldermen proposed the plan of using the sinking fund money to buy city bonds and thus save interest rates. And the mayor grabbed that idea as his own."

Roellig on Street Costs

"Alderman Bill Roellig first proposed to assess the cost of surfacing the streets on the city as a whole and not on abutting property owners alone. And the mayor now tells you it was his idea."

"One of the biggest things I sponsored in the common council was the milk station idea. The plan was first suggested to me by Dr. H. C. Evenson and he has worked for the public milk station ever since."

"Now then there is one other thing I want to tell you. A certified copy of the proceedings of a legislative committee shows that on Feb. 7, 1922, Mayor Bentley of La Crosse and H. A. Michler of Fond du Lac appeared before the committee in favor of the Titus bill, No. 80-8, the first of a series of bills brought against the city by Herman Wagner to test the validity of the ordinance. Justice Eschweiler upheld the decision of the Milwaukee circuit from which the plaintiff appealed. The higher court held that a city can legally pass a minimum wage law and that such is not class legislation."

The ordinance, passed by the common council of Milwaukee, provided a minimum wage scale for all city employees engaged on public work."

Wauwatosa Wins Case

MADISON, Wis.—The supreme court Tuesday upheld the city of Wauwatosa in its contention that the city of Milwaukee had unlawfully sought to annex territory contiguous to its western boundary. Justice Eschweiler sustained the lower court decision and allowed the injunction restraining Milwaukee from exercising jurisdiction over the territory involved.

The court decided that Milwaukee could not annex property within the corporate limits of Wauwatosa without the property first having been detached from that city and without consent of the city council.

Cut Award in Racine Suit
MADISON, Wis.—The supreme court Tuesday modified and affirmed the judgment of the Racine county circuit court in the scandal suit brought against John B. Piette, rector of St. Rose's parish church, by Dennis E. Fitzgerald, trustee and secretary of the church. Supreme Justice Eschweiler reduced the $2,200 damages awarded Fitzgerald by the circuit court to $1,000.

Fitzgerald, in two cases of action, asked total damages of $25,000. He set out that the rector had called him a "Bar, hypocrite, traitor and Judas," and had made statements in public reflecting on the plaintiff's moral integrity and official fidelity.

UPHOLDS CITY EXPENDITURE

MADISON, Wis.—The payment of $97,395 by the city of Milwaukee to the Great Lakes and Dock company for construction of a breakwater, was held valid by the supreme court Tuesday, in upholding a lower court decision. W. H. Park, in a taxpayers' suit, contested the right of the city to pay the bill.

Supreme Court Reverses Ruling of Lower Court Forbidding Search Without a Warrant

COURT DENIES RIGHT OF AGENTS TO SEARCH PRIVATE AUTOMOBILE

Action Was in Violation of Constitutional Rights, Court Holds

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—The right of prohibition officers to search homes attached to places licensed to sell non-intoxicating beverages without a warrant was upheld by a decision of the Wisconsin supreme court, Tuesday. At the same time the court in another decision on hold that it was invasion of constitutional rights for officers to search an automobile for liquor without having a warrant.

Chief Justice Vinje in the case of John Walsh and Joseph Tunn, against the state, decided that "if a person engages in the sale of non-intoxicating beverages and uses a part of his home for such purpose, he must refrain from the possession of intoxicating liquors in such home when there is any means of access from the bar-room to the liquor. To hold otherwise would be to allow intoxicating liquors to be on premises licensed for the sale of non-intoxicating beverages under the sanction of the home. The statute makes no exception and we can make none in favor of the home."

"If a person desires to keep unlawfully intoxicating liquor in his home he must sever it from premises licensed for sale of non-intoxicating beverages."

Because of an error in admitting evidence the lower court decision in this case was reversed.

Can't Search Automobile

Justice Eschweiler, in the case of the state of Wisconsin against Stephen Hoyer, involving the right to search an automobile for liquor, which on a warrant, held that "the evidence challenged in this case was taken by officers by unlawful search and seizure and contrary to the constitutional provision."

"For ourselves we elect to stand, as the court has heretofore stood, with the federal and other courts, which consider the provisions of the bill of rights as embodied in the constitution to be of substance and not mere forms."

RULES DOCTOR MAY BE PROSECUTED FOR ILLEGAL OPERATION

Liable to Punishment if the Operation Fails, Holds
Attorney General

MADISON, Wis.—A doctor who attempts an illegal operation and does not succeed is subject to prosecution according to a decision of the attorney general Tuesday in C. E. Sonderberg, district attorney of Barron county.

In the opinion, Sonderberg's attention is called to the fact that the law applies to those guilty of "unlawful" operations in the practice of medicine or surgery and attempted illegal operations are listed under that classification.

People charged with violating city ordinances are not entitled to jury trials, the attorney general held in an opinion to the Assemblyman Herman Sachtlein, Madison.

In another opinion the attorney general held that a contractor who covers money paid under the terms of his contract to another person, than the erection of the building for which it was paid, can be prosecuted for embezzlement.

The opinion was given to Charles M. Lovett, district attorney of Barron county, in the case he cited for prosecution took the contract for the building of a church. The corporation was considered solvent and due to this fact no liens were filed against the property.

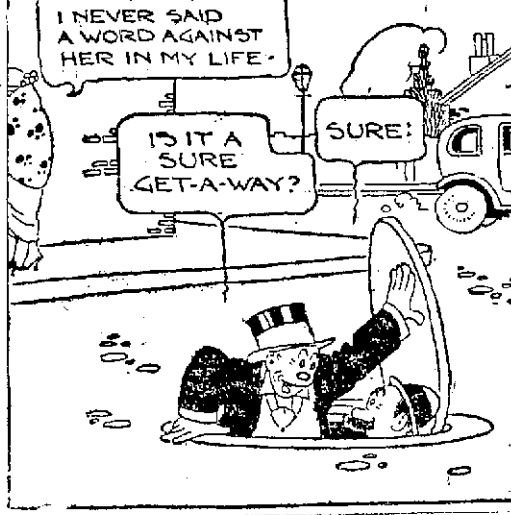

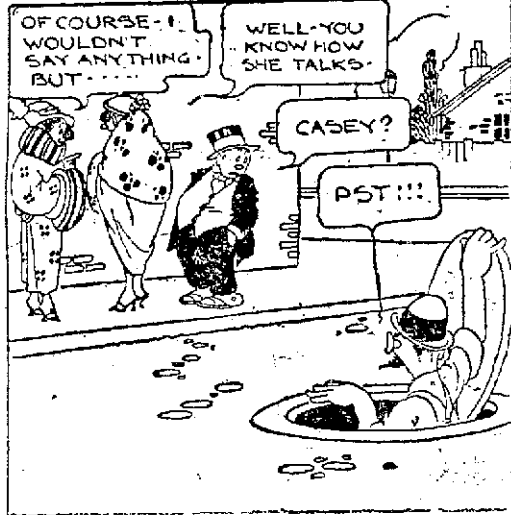

Instead of spending the money received under the contract on the church building the money was devoted to enterprises in other sections of the state.

The attorney general also gave an opinion that inspectors, clerks and labor clerk can be members of the same political party.

BRINGING UP FATHER—

ILLEGITIMATE CHILD -PROTECTED BY BILL BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Provides that Records of Birth be Kept Secret; also Protects
Foster Parents' Rights

MADISON, Wis.—A measure of humanity that drifts into the steady influence of good homes will be protected by the state if the legislature passes the Sachtlein bill now under consideration.

The illegitimate child that grows up under the care of its parents by adoption will have no public document on file telling of its origin and the dread specter of disgrace will have less chance of getting a foothold under the terms of this proposed law.

The record of the child's origin instead of being a public court record would be transferred to the safety deposit vault of the Children's Protective association.

Orphan asylums cannot give the child what a good home can and people adopting children are given the assurance under the bill that after six months from the time of adoption a child is their own whose possession cannot be disputed. Parents who do not file a claim within six months of adoption forfeit all claims to their child.

Both Rev. D. A. Richardson of the Children's Home-finding society, of Wisconsin and Dr. Warren B. Hill, general superintendent of state children's associations, are supporting the bill.

"We have had cases of inconceivable sordidness," Dr. Hill said. "Parents have deserted their child and by good fortune it has fallen into the hands of some family who loved and cared for it forgetting entirely the factor of blood relationship. Then the natural parents have decided that the child is healthy and bright, that he will be of the greatest economic value and so they have started proceedings to get it back for the sake of putting money into the family till through the services that it can render. They win merely by the technicality of the blood relationship and regardless of the fact that the change is of the greatest detriment to the child and a radical injury and unfairness to the foster parents. Every child, regardless of the sins of its parents, has the inalienable right to live happily and make good."

In reference to the clause which would remove from public inspection the record of a child's origin, Dr. Hill asserted that he knew of instances of an adopted child living a happy and successful life until some person with malicious intent, has resurrected a past and has used this information to make the child's life miserable.

NORTH DAKOTA OFFICIAL WILL AID FLOGGING SIFT
LANGDON, N. D.—G. Grimson, state's attorney of Cavalier county, left Monday for Madison, Wis., to present evidence concerning the death of Martin Tabert of Munich, N. D., in a Florida convict camp, to a grand jury which is to be convened April 8.

He has called several witnesses to appear before the grand jury. Walter Higginbotham, boss of the camp in which Tabert died, and who is alleged to have flogged him shortly before his death, is being held on a charge of first degree murder.

AWAKES FROM 41 HOUR SLEEP
AUSTIN, Minn.—"A breakfast ready?" were the first words spoken by Clarence Beadell, a high school student, when he awoke after a sleep of 41 hours during which all efforts to arouse him failed. The boy seemingly has suffered no ill effects from his long sleep, and Dr. C. C. Allen, who attended him, maintains this is not a case of sleeping sickness. He says it was a case of "nerves."

MINÉ SCHOOL OFFERS BOYS A CHANCE FOR FURTHER EDUCATION

MADISON, Wis.—The Wisconsin State Mining School at Platteville desires to get into communication with young men of the state who for any reason were obliged to leave school prior to their completion of the high school course and who later on felt the need of additional education.

The requirements for admission to the mining school are sufficiently elastic to admit students who have had no more than one year in high school and in cases of mature young men they have sometimes been admitted even though they had no more than eight grade training. The ages of those in attendance range from seventeen to thirty-seven years, the average being 22.6 years. Forty-six and five-tenths per cent of them are not high school graduates.

The school is located in the center of an important industrial and mining district and offers a practical course in mining and chemical engineering which has been developed with the idea of enabling young men to make a living and also giving them the essential fundamentals so that those of special aptitude may continue their course later on either at Platteville or some other institution.

BOXING BILL KILLED IN COLORADO SENATE

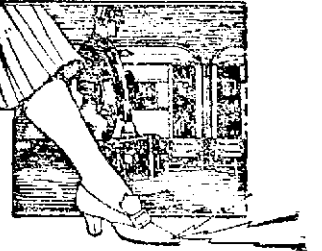

DENVER, Colo.—The Colorado senate Monday killed by a vote of 17 to 13, a bill proposing to legalize boxing in the state. The bill had passed the house and was on third reading in the upper body. The state supreme court several months ago ruled that boxing for which an admission was charged is illegal. Up to the time of the court's ruling, bouts were permitted here under an old boxing law.

$4,000,000 N. D. BOND
SALE SLATED IN MAY
BISMARCK, N. D.—Two million dollars of additional rural credits bonds will be sold by the state probably about May 15, and at the same time there will be offered $2,000,000 of bonds to provide additional working capital for the state owned mill and elevator at Grand Forks. It was announced here by Governor R. A. Nestos as chairman of the industrial commission.

The bonds issued to provide funds for the real estate loans made through the rural credits department of the Bank of North Dakota have been exhausted, a total of $7,500,000 having been issued. With a temporary surplus of funds because of the heavy receipts of tax money at this time, the Bank of North Dakota will carry the farm loans now being made until the $2,000,000 sale in May, it was said.

Region was the first colony to have a written constitution.

A Personal Experience With Standard Oil

"Chicago, March 7. — I read with a great deal of interest the editorial, "Shall Ruin Be the Penalty of Success," in connection with the report of the senate committee attacking the various Standard Oil Companies.

I want to take this opportunity of relating my personal experience with the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Having changed from a coal to an oil burning furnace, I was in the market for fuel oil, and after figuring with several oil companies I closed a contract with the Standard Oil of Indiana, simply because their contract was more liberal and advantageous to me in every way.

I secured cheaper oil, better oil, and first class service."

D. G. Moustakis.

The letter reprinted above appeared in the Voice of the People columns of a Chicago newspaper, March 9, 1923.

Cheaper oil—better oil—and first class service.

That, in terse simple terms, expresses the ideals which have made the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) big.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is big because it is called upon to render a big service. Its financial statement deals in big figures because it does an enormous volume of business in a multiplicity of products entering innumerable fields of industry.

Because the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) manufactures a great number of useful products from a single basic material, it is able to cut the manufacturing cost of each item in a way that accrues to the benefit and financial advantage of the consumer whether he buys a quart or a carload.

A Hard Task

To become football coach of the University of Wisconsin is indeed a fine opportunity, one that carries responsibility with it. To have accepted the position of coach at this time is a step that required courage as well as ambition.

Jack Ryan comes to this great task under a handicap which, without being pessimistic, we should all recognize. He takes a team which in the past two years has been made famous by such stars as Williams, Tebell and Elliott but he takes it without them. To build a team around one or two exceptional stars is a very different job from building up a team without outstanding stars, and practically with new material. And that is exactly what Jack Ryan must do.

And so, we should refrain from comparing 1923 football results on even terms with those of 1921 and 1922. Should Ryan develop a team which does better than those of the two previous years, it will be all to his credit. Should his first year fall somewhat short of the mark set by his predecessor, it will not be to his discredit.

Jack Ryan has made a splendid impression thus far. His personality is winning. He looks and acts the real man he is reputed to be. In a somewhat smaller field he has achieved exceptional results. All he asks of Wisconsin is a fair chance and loyal support. We are not inclined to boast about 1923, although we may be pleasantly surprised, but if the breaks are decent to us we may well look with high confidence to 1924.

Meanwhile, the glad hand is everywhere extended to Coach Jack Ryan.

Overlooking Human Nature

It is up to the Wisconsin assembly to preserve the legislature's reputation for taking human nature into account in matters of legislation. Unless it shall do so, that body will have gone on record as having given no credence to the biological theory of the survival of the fittest.

The action of the senate in forbidding the use of the state capital for the Junior Prom and the military ball was based, fundamentally, upon the thought that a state building should not be lent to uses in which all might not participate with equal convenience. Doubtless it would not have disapproved were no charge of admission made, and no conventionalities of dress observed.

The trend today is toward attempting an artificial condition of society in which people are put upon a common level, with no heights to be attained by those who are willing to make special efforts. The move against flunking unfair students is in line. The effect of this whole idea is to degrade instead of to exalt society, and he is indeed blind who does not recognize the fact that progress is possible only because of the exceptional efforts or exceptional ability of those who in one way or another arrive at leadership. Students working their way through the university, and ambitious to do so, attend these functions. For them it is a special effort, sometimes a sacrifice, but the special effort means more to them, and to the world, than merely having gone to a dance. The will to succeed, to excel, which begets the practice of excellence, may have a dance or a fraternity for a stepping stone, but it persists through the life of the individual, and later comes to view in some of the bigger things which make the world better and life sweeter.

We can legislate equality of opportunity, but we can not legislate equality of men and women.

Going Slow

BUSINESS is on the up-grade. It is not so long since it was at the peak of a boom, and a still shorter time since it was in the trough of a depression that, were it not for the federal reserve bank's stabilization, would very likely have been a distressing panic. So the memory of what a boom means, and what a near-panic means, remains fresh in the minds of business men. It is one of the best signs of the current prosperity that in every direction one hears business men warning against over-expansion and inflation. There is no evidence anywhere among the leaders of the business community of that mad spirit of speculation and greedy grab-bits, which characterized the war and post-war boom periods.

The present generation of business has learned its lesson. It realizes that for the hectic profits of a boom there are more than compensating disadvantages in the depression that follows, when everybody takes a huge loss, all but the strongest go under, and starvation prices follow unemployment downward in a vicious cycle. It is to be hoped that this spirit of caution and common-sense will continue to prevail. Then everybody will have a job at good wages, prices will maintain a fair relation to income, profits will be steady, if not spectacular, and there will be enduring comfort, on the average, through the land.

Booms, like panics, are largely psychological. If business men keep their heads and watch their steps, they can be averted. The painful lessons of 1921 are still vividly remembered, and that is one of the most gratifying signs of the present situation, for it offers assurance that business will keep its feet on the ground for some time to come.

A Practical Toy

GLIDER-FLYING, recently a favored sport in Europe, is not merely a thrilling pastime, although perhaps many of us have looked upon the motorless planes used as toys more nearly related to the kite than the practical, powerful airplane. How practical and useful the gliders have proved themselves may be seen in the dispatch from France announcing that one Georges Barbot in a glider equipped with a seven-horse power motor had flown for a quarter of an hour, taking off, flying and alighting without a wind to help him. You can estimate the importance of this achievement by recalling the huge motors required in contemporary types of airplanes. A seven-horse-power motor would not budge the ordinary air-craft even of the smallest type, much less take it aloft and keep it there.

The dispatches claim that the Barbot machine has a "ceiling" of a mile and a half, a speed of 55 miles an hour, and can cover 125 miles on a gallon of gasoline. Apparently it is a sort of air flivver. No doubt, if it proves a practical contraption and not a freak, it will do as much for airplaning as the small car has done for motoring.

All of this is a direct result of the glider craze. The experiments of the sport have taught experts a great deal about reducing resistance, design and balance. The discoveries are teaching builders how to accommodate man-made wings to the lift of air-currents, so that in effect the machine becomes more buoyant and needs much less power to move and stay aloft. We are getting closer to the secret of perfect flight held by a few birds such as hawks and gulls, which can rise and fall, wheel and speed, without flapping a wing or apparent effort of any sort. Experts believe that this easy mastery is due to the way in which the bird takes advantage of the currents of the air. Just how it is done so far remained unknown. Apparently the glider is beginning to penetrate the mystery.

It is said unions are to be formed in every city on the Mississippi river by employees in lumber mills who will demand that ten hours be considered a day's work.

His Masked Hostess

BY FRANK H. WILLIAMS

Ramsey Cummings was a bachelor, 33 years old, and was shy and rather self-centered.

So when Ramsey came to his office in the morning he generally went through the same routine day in and day out without much variation. There was a shy greeting to the office force, a quick dart into his large, comfortable office, a glance through the mail and then some dictation to pretty Mary Evans, while, shyly, he moved, at the luxuriance of her unbobbed brown hair, and marveled at the depth of her big blue eyes, and felt a little flutter around his heart at the mere thought that perhaps she might some day preside over his home instead of merely being an important cog in the office machinery.

But this morning there was a break in the routine. Ramsey, in fact, scarcely even looked up when Mary, radiant in her youthful beauty, entered on time to the dot and took her accustomed seat.

This morning there had come a letter—an extraordinary, startling letter—and Ramsey was still reading it over and over and still trying to determine whether it was a hoax or the real thing.

This is what the letter, written in a flowing, feminine hand, had to say:

"Dear Ramsey (that's not very formal, is it?)

"I know you're a lonely old bachelor and you ought to have a lot of fun. Instead of merely inhabiting quarters. It looks to me as if you don't have much fun in life and it also looks to me as though a good home-cooked meal would do you a world of good. So I'm going to take pity on you and invite you to take dinner with my married sister and myself tomorrow evening at half past six o'clock at my sister's home, 315 Linden avenue. There will be only six there—my sister, her husband will be out of the city, much to his disappointment, because we told him about our plans and he was very interested in them. And I'm going to cook the dinner entirely by myself. Now here's the point. I'd just die if you should find out who I am, because this is a mighty bold thing to do. So my sister and I will be masked while you are at the house, and I'm going to trust to your honor not to try to find out who we are.

"If you can't come, please phone Mary at 1230 at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow noon and simply say 'I can't come' and give your name. But if we don't hear from you at that time we'll expect you tomorrow night."

There was no name signed to the letter and nothing else.

Ramsey, quite absorbed at this rather pleasant break in the monotony of his life, read the letter again and again.

At last, however, he looked up to find Mary's big blue eyes fixed on him in amazement at this astounding disclosure of the contents of the letter. And as Ramsey looked full into Mary's eyes the letter was momentarily forgotten and a stronger feeling of embarrassment for Mary swept over him than he had yet experienced.

On the instant Ramsey felt a wild outburst of hopes and affections on the tip of his tongue.

Then, on the instant, a cloud of deeper shade over him. Mary dropped her eyes to her notebook and there he saw again the photograph of a man—the same photograph that had been in her notebook for the last week, and which she so frequently regarded with rapid attention. Her fiance, probably, thought Ramsey, miserably.

Pardon me, but I'm sorry. All during the time Mary was in the office with him there were two elements in Ramsey's mind which stood out prominently. One was the fact that he usually ready flow of business language now made him frequently stop and stare blankly into vacancy. One of the other was the rapidly growing conviction that Mary and fast augmenting rage against the unknown man whose photograph she had so frequently looked at and the other was the lure of the unknown woman who had so suddenly and interestingly come into his life.

"Sex Specialist" Analyzes Plight of 20,000,000

BY MILTON BRONER

LONDON.—The problems created by Europe's 20,000,000 "superfluous" women and girls will solve themselves, in the opinion advanced today by W. L. George, world-famed "sex specialist."

These 20,000,000 are doomed to die old maids—their normal desire for husbands, homes and children, unsatisfied—because there are not enough men to supply them with mates.

George has paid particular attention to the complex problems arising from this situation. Economist, sociologist, essayist and novelist, he has been interested in every aspect of the situation, from the biological to the romantic.

"The present preponderance of women over men in Europe is due more to the losses of men in the war than to all other causes put together," says George. "Therefore, it is a temporary situation."

"The present generation will last 20 or 40 years. Then it will pass off the scene. But the present generation will be the parents of the next generation; and that next generation, as usual, will be about evenly divided between the sexes."

Losses in Industry

"For the time being I think woman is worse off than she was before the war, economically. She seems to have lost much of the ground that she gained during the war."

"Whole industries were created during the war in which woman sold her services. Many of these have passed out of existence. This, together with the rightful insistence that ex-service men be given jobs, has helped beat down women's wages and thus made things harder for them."

"Socially there has been a big advance for women. Before the war men met women only socially. During the war men met them in a business way."

"Men learned that women were capable; that they could do the job assigned to them; that in certain lines they could hold their own with us."

"One of the immediate results in England was that the professions were thrown open to women."

Learn Team Work

"During the war women learned to do team work. The friendships and comradeships formed among women during that period have in many cases been kept up; and that is a splendid thing for them and for the world."

"Morally I think woman is no worse off as a result of the war and the consequent preponderance of women over men. That there has been some looseness in thinking, talking and acting no one will gainsay. But I do deny that it has been on any such scale as some people charge. There are now and always have been in the world three classes of women:

"Those who can't be plucked.
"Those who may be plucked.
"Those who are easily plucked."

"I don't think the aftermath of the war has appreciably changed the numbers in the three classes of women. If you watch the courts you get a pretty definite line on things.

Lesson of Divorces

"There are three periods when married persons take their troubles to the divorce judge:

"In the first year, those who ought never to have been married at all. They were totally incompatible, could never get along, and the breakup comes soon.

"In the fifth or sixth year, the restless men and women who find the marriage too irksome.

"In the seventeenth to twentieth year, those who have not found happiness in marriage but who have endured the yoke for years because they wanted to wait until the children had grown up.

"Now during the war and just after it there were a great many marriages which should never have been made. The backwash from this was seen in the divorce courts. But that is now rapidly diminishing.

"I don't believe the preponderance of women over men in Europe will greatly increase either the number of women who will lead immoral lives or form illicit unions or who will go into nunneries.

"The average woman doesn't think about this excess of women over men. And even if she did, she would not take the subject to herself. She would always figure that she was one of those who were going to be married and not one of those who were going to be an old maid."

Before the famous Boston Tea Party American colonists got their tea by smuggling it from Holland.

WISCONSIN FARM PIONEER DIES AT AGE OF 91 YEARS

Man Has Distinction of Attending More State Fairs than Anyone Else

SAYS SUMMER OF 1859 PRODUCED
POOREST CROP IN STATE HISTORY

Tells of Freezing Temperatures
Through the Whole Summer

MADISON, Wis.—David Gardner, farm pioneer, 91 years old, who died at his home recently had the distinction of having attended more Wisconsin state fairs than any other individual.

He attended the first state fair held in Wisconsin and has seen practically every one since. At recent state fairs he was an object of much interest because of his long connection with such occasions.

Gardner also had other claims of distinction. It was he who nearly 70 years ago broke the ground of the fabled ancient city of Aztlan in Jefferson county, which in recent years has yielded remarkable returns to excavators and scientists and which has now been made a state park. He came to Wisconsin territory with his parents as a boy of 10 in 1842.

To those who complained of the weather, Gardner told of the summer of 1859, while he was a farmer. In that year, he said, Wisconsin had the poorest crops it ever knew. There were no frosts, the temperatures were below the freezing point and in June he collected that he had found ice in the water tank. As a result of the poor crop he said that he turned his fields over to a neighbor who thrashed some of the grain with a flail.

The year 1869, he continued, was the best crop year. The state overhauled with an average of about 30 bushels to an acre. His own field at that time, he said, yielded 52 bushels.

The town of Aztlan that stood on the historic ruins was described by Gardner as having three houses, two stores, a livery and a tin shop, a "road" shop, a shoe shop and a wagon factory in which from 15 to 25 men were employed. Later on the wagon factory and other industries left the little town and nothing was left but a shanty and a butter factory. The old village has since disappeared.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a bit of cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are small, a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calomel powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

FOSTER CONVICTION ASKED BY STATE IN DEFENSE OF NATION

Closing Arguments Heard Today in Trial of Alleged Communist

CASE EXPECTED TO GO TO THE JURY LATE IN THE AFTERNOON

Trial of Ruthenberg to Follow
Closely Foster Arraignment

ST. JOSEPH, Mich.—By the Associated Press. Defense of American institutions demands the conviction of William Z. Foster of Chicago charged with violating the Michigan law against criminal syndicalism, the state argued Tuesday in the closing arguments at Foster's trial.

Foster was arrested as a result of attending a secret convention of the communist party of America held in the lately dunes on the shore of Lake Michigan last August. He is the first of thirty-two arrested after the convention to face trial.

Charles G. Gore, state's attorney for Berrien county, opened for the prosecution, with a plea for conviction, which carries a sentence of ten years in prison or a fine of $5,000 or both, at the discretion of the court. Mr. Gore was followed by Humphrey Gray, Berrien Harbor banker, philanthropist and church founder, representing the defense.

The closing arguments will be made this afternoon by O. L. Smith, assistant attorney general of Michigan, and Frank P. Walsh of New York and Washington, chief counsel for Foster.

If the arguments are completed in time, Judge Charles White will deliver his instructions and give the case to the jury Tuesday evening.

The state announced that as soon as the verdict is returned it will ask that the trial of Charles E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland, one of Foster's co-defendants, be set for next Monday.

Mr. Gore charged the prosecution with trying to prejudice the jury when, during the trial, it asked Ruthenberg, who appeared as a witness for Foster, whether he believed in the American Legion. The question, he said, had no purpose in the trial except to create an unfair bias in the jury's minds.

"There is a basic wrong somewhere in the capitalist system," Mr. Gore said. "I know it from my early days when I worked six years on the docks at Ludington and in the woods with the lumberjacks."

Mr. Gore said a bank president and a corporation lawyer, but volunteered his services to help defend Foster and promised his fee, if any, to a church which he founded a few years ago.

Halls Defense Argument
Judge White halted Mr. Gore when the defense attorney, arguing that Foster was being tried for his opinions, declared "you can't imprison opinions." The court told Mr. Gore he could not continue that line of argument.

"I will charge the jury now," the court said, "that this defendant is not under trial for opinions which he held, but because he advocated political and industrial reform in the manner set forth by the statute."

Frank P. Walsh, in the closing argument for Foster, told the jury the case was being tried upon the interpretation placed upon words and not on any overt act. He read to the jury the charge against Foster, which is that he "did voluntarily assemble with a certain society, group, and assemblage of persons, to wit: The communist party of America, formed to teach and advocate the doctrine of criminal syndicalism."

Judge White announced at noon that he will adjourn court after noon at the conclusion of the arguments and postpone charging the jury until tomorrow morning.

Metals Become "Fatigued"

Many curious accidents have occurred because some important part of a machine has failed owing to "fatigue." That may sound surprising, but engineers know that steel and iron, when subjected to heavy loads and vibration for long periods, undergo a serious internal change. This change so weakens the material that a chain may snap with only half the weight it would ordinarily carry.

More surprising still is the news that a metal can fall ill or be poisoned. Alloys, that is, mixtures of aluminum with other metals are especially liable to develop a disease that causes them to rot away.

Man Power Cheaper Than Machinery

At the port of Durban, the ocean terminus of the South African Railway, the automatic conveying machinery on board the American vessel making this city is never uncovered while in the harbor. Native coolies load and unload the ship, working for twenty cents a day. The docks at Durban have no mechanical unloading equipment of any kind, and during the rush season which is summer, sixteen thousand coolies are employed at elevators at the loading port.

Diners Cheer Ex-president When Told He Was "Listening in"

NEW YORK.—Lord Robert Cecil, English statesman and protagonist of the league of nations, told 2,000 persons at a dinner of the Foreign Policy association, in the Hotel Astor Monday night, that America could not afford to stay out of the league. The league has already done meritorious work and will continue to do so, he said. America should ask herself, he said, if she can afford to stand aloof from the scheme that promises more than any other to prevent the outbreak of war. Other outstanding points in his address were:

Fear Breeds War

"International fear and suspicion are the basic evils responsible for the madness of war."

"In their places must be substituted the force of persuasion and public opinion."

"Disarmament cannot come until it is general and that it cannot be general until nations agree to non-peace to their neighbors if they are attacked."

"No nation can build a Chinese wall around its frontiers and exclude other nations of the world."

"The league of nations has been accepted by 52 nations as the best means of substituting persuasion for armed force."

Wilson Hears Speech

NEW YORK.—Woodrow Wilson listened to the address of Lord Robert Cecil on the league of nations here Monday night by radio at his home in Washington.

When it was announced that the former president was hearing the address the diners at the Hotel Astor rose to their feet and cheered. Mrs. Wilson, who was present, smiled happily as she joined in the tribute to her husband.

ACTRESS NAMED IN FARRAR ACTION IS DENIED A TRIAL

NEW YORK.—Stella Adler, youthful actress, known on the stage as Stella Larrimore, Tuesday was denied a jury trial to determine the truth of allegations made against her as co-respondent in the divorce suit of Geraldine Farrar against her actor husband, Lou Tellegen.

Miss Adler, alleged heroine of park bench and hallway spooning episodes with Farrar's one-time "perfect lover" asked Supreme Court Justice O'Malley Monday to order a jury trial to give her an opportunity to clear her name.

The court held that as co-respondent she was "not a party to the action."

BERLIN PRESS A
UNIT IN PROTEST
OF KRUPP DEATHS

Claim Workers Did Nothing to Provoke Shooting by the French Troops

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—The employees of the Krupp plant at Essen, it is announced here, began Tuesday a twenty-four hours strike in protest against the French action of last Saturday in firing on a crowd of Krupp employees, resulting in eleven deaths and a score seriously wounded. There are about 51,000 men employed at the plant.

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—Columns of protests in connection with the shootings at the Krupp plant in Tuesday's Berlin newspapers upon their appearance for the first time since Sunday morning, on account of the Easter holidays. Dispatches from the Ruhr stoutly maintain that the workers did nothing which warranted the French shooting and that the factory management was innocent of any agitation of the laborers, such as would justify the arrest yesterday of four Krupp directors.

The death toll remains at eleven, but it is semi-officially stated that several deaths probably will occur among the nineteen seriously wounded, who, with eleven others are still in the hospitals.

The dispatches emphasize that the French reports are false in claiming an organized attack was planned against the French detachment which occupied the works. The Germans say the soundings of the sirens was an alarm agreed upon by the management and the workers and that it consisted of nothing more than the usual signal for the stoppage of work which previously had been commonly used at the mines and other plants occupied by allied forces.

The charge made by the French that the soldiers were attacked with steam is declared to be based apparently on the fact that a certain amount of steam drifted into the occupied area from locomotive whistles which were being blown immediately behind the building. The claim that the workmen were armed with revolvers is unanimously denied, the correspondents reporting that the laborers had not even as much as a stick in their hands.

JURY TAMPERING IN LIQUOR CASE BRINGS
DISCHARGE PANEL

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Because of alleged tampering with the foreman, Judge J. Whitaker Thompson in the United States district court Tuesday discharged the jury trying the case of twenty-five men charged with conspiracy to illegally withdraw and sell liquor.

Terrence O'Loughlin, the foreman, was held in $5,000 bail on a charge of contempt of court. He will have a hearing on Thursday. Judge Thompson in dismissing the jury directed that a new panel be assembled April 23.

DRY QUESTION NOW BIG ISSUE IN LEGISLATURE

peal the continuing appropriation to the guard, which will probably cause a contest. Contrary to reports Governor Blaine has not asked the repeal of the national guard continuing appropriation. He asked for repeal of the special $300,000 appropriation to the guard, authorized by the 1919 legislature.

Road Legislation Complicated

Highway legislation has been complicated by the introduction of two new general bills providing for the establishment of a comprehensive financing program. One of these measures has the backing of the county boards association and the league of Wisconsin municipalities. It calls for a gasoline tax of two cents a gallon, a moderate license fee based upon weight and a two per cent valuation tax in lieu of the present personal property tax. This is considered a comprehensive measure having the best chance to pass.

There is a battle over administration of Wisconsin's educational system still to be staged. Governor Blaine has taken a hand in this by asking that the state board of education be abolished.

So intermingled are the various issues raised by these big problems still remaining for consideration, that the actual accomplishment of the session are all in doubt. The senate has shown a disposition to kill a large share of assembly bills, and the assembly has commenced to recede. This fact coupled with the various factional differences and the wet and dry issue, is expected to tie up the session considerably.

How "Spoonings" Originated

Once it was the custom in many parts of the country for a lad to present his beloved with a "love spoon." These quaint utensils, now much prized by curio collectors, were hand-made, and often beautifully carved, and consisted of a single stem with generally two bowls.

This gift was accepted as the preliminary to serious betrothal and so "spooning" acquired a very definite meaning.

BY PHILIP J. SINNOTT
(NFA Staff Correspondent.)
ERIE, Pa.—A short gray-haired man, with pink cheeks reflecting perfect health, his carriage and clothes giving a dignified air of prosperity, is a frequent visitor at the local railroad yards right now.

He watches with interest the switching crews making up trains for California, for Canada, for Florida. Occasionally his keen eye catches sight of a tramp "en route." He manages to engage the wanderer in conversation.

Perhaps the hobo is a youngster, fired with an ambition to see the world. After the conversation, the youth is most likely to leave the "roads" waving and, with money from his new friend, take the train home.

No Travel for Him

Perhaps the wanderer is an old-time hobo, one of those "chained to the road." Then there is likely to be a joyful meeting and an invitation to the well-dressed chap to join in a trip.

But all pleadings are in vain—"A No. 1," most famous hobo of all times, is through wandering!

Thirty years or more of wandering rolls the blood of A-No. 1 every spring. But he's now Leon Ray Livingston, author and publisher, so each year, after a hard struggle, he wins his battle against the lure of the road.

"Don't you worry for fear he'll not be able to resist his 'itching feet'?" his attractive wife is asked at this time.

"He loves his family too much," is her proud answer.

Cupid's Work

And such is the change Dan Cupid has wrought. No the famous hobo, whose mark is seen along every railroad system in America and Canada, who has traveled more than 300,000 miles at a cost of $7.61. His splendid home with wife and kiddies drowses out the springtime call of the road.

Afraid of a whipping, Livingston ran away from his San Francisco home when 11. He covered all of America, and traveled in England, Germany, Mexico, South America and Alaska.

He fortunately fell in with a "square" hobo.

"Always he A-No. 1, whoever you are, wherever you go, wherever you be," admonished the youth's hobo friend, Sam, "A-No. 1" became his "moniker."

Jack London hoboed across America with A-No. 1.

Starts to Write

Self-educated, he began to write stories of tramp life, with a view to keeping other boys from vagabondage. Thousands of these are sold every year.

A chance kindness by a railway man at Erie ten years ago caused A-No. 1 to send the Ideal man a box of oranges. On his next visit, the tramp's met romance. Livingston left the road and became a husband and later head of a family.

Smarrapan, the Smallest Known
Vertebrate

Supposedly the smallest fish in the world are to be found in the mountain lake, Buhl, on the island of Luzon, Philippines. This fish, which the natives call the smarrapan, is the most minute vertebrate animal known to science. It weighs only half a grain, and half an inch is its maximum length.

HARDING TO DISCUSS

IN WORLD TRIBUNAL

American Membership in Court of Justice to be Made Subject of Western Talks

HOLDS CONFERENCE ON PROPOSAL
WITH HEAD OF COLUMBIA "U"

President Puts in Much Time at Golf; Will Attend Baseball Game

AUGUSTA, Ga.—American membership in the international court of justice probably will be used by President Harding as a subject of one or more speeches to be made on his proposed western tour, it was said here Tuesday by several members of the president's vacation party.

Mr. Harding, shortly before the adjournment of congress last month, recommended to the senate that the United States accept conditional membership in the international court. Since then he has been giving not a little study to the question, and Monday night he talked for some time with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, on the subject.

Dr. Butler recommended the proposal of membership in the international court as an issue which the republican party could safely carry before the country. Arguments that such membership would involve the United States in the league of nations are, he asserted, illogical.

The conference with Dr. Butler was the first the president has had since his arrival here early on Sunday for a week's stay. Charles D. Hiles, republican national committee man for New York, who had been expected to confer with Mr. Harding, left here Monday and it is considered unlikely that any further conferences of importance will be held during the week.

The president planned to get in some more golf Tuesday over the Augusta country club course and also had an invitation to visit an exhibition baseball game between the Detroit Americans and the Toronto International league club.

BADGERS URGED TO BUY NEXT WINTER'S COAL SUPPLY EARLY

State Committee Warns Consumers to Guard Against Possible Shortage

MADISON, Wis.—Domestic consumers of coal in Wisconsin are advised by the state fuel committee to purchase their next winter's coal supply during the spring and summer months in order to guard against another season's shortage.

The committee suggests that consumers will benefit themselves and furnish steadier work for the miners by their early acquisition of fuel supplies. It urges dealers actively to cater to early buyers.

"The householders would benefit from the fact that they are likely to get cleaner and better prepared coal in warmer weather," a statement issued by the committee says.

"The problems and possibilities of community or town storage are now being studied under a combined arrangement of the department of commerce of the United States, coal commission, and the federal and state fuel administrators. It is hoped to work out some definite plan that will be a benefit eventually, not only to the consumer but also to the mine operator, the railroads, the wholesale and the retail dealers.

"But, as this plan would be for possible future development and could hardly be put into effect this year, the advisability of summer storage of household coal is emphasized and urged as being to the consumer generally as well as of the transportation interests, distributors and retailers.

The state coal committee suggests that there might again be later difficulties at the mines next summer, and if this occurs points out that another shortage would have to be contended with.

"The household consumer should give this possibility consideration, remembering his experience during the winter just past and select another storage or distribution procedure which might prove a statement on hand."

KILAUEA VOLCANO UNUSUALLY ACTIVE

HILO, T. H. By The Associated Press. Kilauea volcano is more active than it has been for years. The glow in the sky is visible for miles. With forty acres of fire less than 200 feet from the rim, the fountain is spouting an amount of lava estimated at three billion cubic yards weekly.

CREW OF ADVENTURERS SAILS FROM FRISCO TO FILM SAVAGE TRIBES OF THE SOUTH SEAS

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Twenty men, average age 40, have sailed from San Francisco on the old whaler Narwhal for the South Seas to fulfill a childhood dream of riches to be gained through adventure. But not by recovery of buried pirate gold or robbery of native pearl divers do they hope to accomplish their purpose.

There will be a modern way—the motion picture photography of savage tribes, said to be cannibals. Against the savages' poisoned arrows, they are prepared to match the white men's firearms.

Among the crew are a Russian count and three former naval officers, and two former army officers of the United States. Several of the men have college degrees; most of them fought in the American or British forces in the world war; a few are of mature age, retired from business.

Their vessel, the Narwhal, is a three-masted bark. Shortly built of oak in 1883, its history includes seal poaching and whaling in the Arctic. Its tonnage is 523, and length, including bowsprit, is 165 feet. To purchase the boat and supplies the twenty men incorporated themselves, each contributing $800. Their corporation is called "The Mutual Trading Company."

Captain Charles L. Arty, a member of the corporation, commands the Narwhal. Once he took it into the Arctic on a whaling cruise. During the war he was a lieutenant commander in the United States navy. His mate and three able seamen are the paid members of the present expedition to the South Seas. None of the twenty adventurers ever previously sailed before the mast, but all have had sea experience.

The cargo carried by the Narwhal includes two tons of dynamite, considerable gasoline, much sacked coal, motion picture films and lumber. One of the crew remarked that in event of disaster they would go up, not down.

The Narwhal will touch first at Honolulu. From there it will proceed to Pago Pago, American Samoa, where the dynamite will be delivered to the United States navy. At Apia, British Samoa, the last of the cargo will be discharged.

Leaving Samoa, the Narwhal will set sail for islands seldom visited by white men—lands of romantic legend, of languorous breezes and love, of typhoons and cruel death. These islands are in the New Caledonia, New Hebrides, Solomon and New Guinea groups.

To obtain pictures of the islands and their people, the Narwhal's crew declared themselves willing to undergo any hardships, and to take any risks. Their vessel will anchor near the shore, and in a power launch a party will go ashore and proceed to the interior.

With tripkets they will attempt to conciliate the savages, but if hostility be shown they are prepared to defend themselves with revolvers and rifles. One of the party is an experienced motion picture photographer, and it is from pictures that he will take that the members of the corporation crew expect to make their chief profit, if there is to be any.

From the many islands visited the Narwhal is expected to acquire a load of copra. Then, turning northward from the South Seas, the island of Guam is to be visited on the return voyage to San Francisco. The cruise will cover approximately 25,000 miles.

The president of the corporation is H. J. Richardson, a mechanical engineer who was lieutenant commander in the United States navy during the war. Thomas J. Watson, secretary, is an insurance man of San Francisco who served in the United States medical corps in the war.

Among the others of the crew are: Count Vladimir Argyrion, former colonel in the czar's army and from 1917 to 1922 military attaché at the Russian embassy in Tokyo; Captain Haskell C. Billings, formerly of the United States Coast artillery; Hyatt I. Hughes, lieutenant in the British flying corps in the war; Murray N. Fay, motion picture man; J. S. Kahler, retired insurance man of Newport, R. I., and San Francisco, and Fred C. Lindner, who has spent many years exploring the South Seas and the Malay Peninsula.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Too much practice by the Chicago Cubs on the Pacific coast is said to have caused the players to go stale. That was given as the reason for the Cubs losing so many games. The Cubs are due to play at El Paso Tuesday.

LA CROSSE MEN AID MEANWELL IN COACHING LESSON

Over Hundred Coaches Attend

Week-end

The ten men from the La Crosse normal who helped Coach W. E. Meanwell demonstrate the latest basketball coaching tactics at a coaching institute at Oshkosh this past week-end were of material assistance in making the day's instruction a success, according to the Badger mentor.

Over a hundred high school and college coaches were in attendance. The coach started off the day's institute with a lecture in the morning going over the fundamentals, unit formation, training, diet, and care of injuries. In the afternoon the normal school men were put into suits and a practical demonstration of the morning's lecture was given. The short pass, pivot and Meanwell defense were worked out on the floor.

NEW ENGLAND IN MOVE TO BUILD UP
ITS AGRICULTURE

States Making Determined Effort to Place Farm Prosperity on Sound Basis

BOSTON—New England, thoroughly aroused over its abandoned farms and the drift of population from the country to the city, which has been more marked than ever since the war, is making a determined effort to build up an agricultural prosperity which shall rest on a firm foundation. Cooperation is being stressed as the great necessity, and not merely cooperation among the farmers themselves and between the farmers and the agricultural colleges and the state experiment stations, but between all these elements and the industrial interests of this section of the country.

At a recent agricultural conference in Boston the interdependence of agriculture and industry was emphasized, and means of making New England more nearly self-sufficient in its farm products were discussed. It was brought out that such products to the value of approximately half a billion dollars were being brought into New England annually from other parts of the country.

Even under present conditions the New England farmer is well off as compared with those of other sections, according to state and college authorities. President Ralph B. Hartzel, of New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, said in a recent address that the old-time trend to the west had passed, and that western farmers were now coming to New England because they saw a bright future for agriculture here, due to the nearness of markets. The Massachusetts department of agriculture, in one of its publications, said it could be proved that the average Massachusetts farmer was more prosperous and got more out of life than the average farmer in any of the wheat-growing western states.

"Farming in Massachusetts," said this publication, "has changed from extensive to intensive crop production. The importance of a state agriculture is usually rated according to her production of grain, beef cattle and swine, with little attention to such crops as potatoes, onions, market garden vegetables, orchard fruits and berries. It is in these agricultural specialties that Massachusetts and the other New England states excel."

Giving detailed figures comparing farm costs and production in Massachusetts and in a certain western grain-growing state, the publication sets the general value of the whole farm crop per acre here at $19.29 and in the western state at $4.92.

Various methods to bring about the desired result are being worked out. Farmers are being encouraged to devote thousands of acres of land, which have been proved too barren for raising crops, to the raising of new forests to replace those cut down by lumbermen. Dairy farmers, livestock owners, and fruit growers are forming cooperative associations for buying feed, fertilizer and other supplies, and for marketing their products.

In Aroostook county, Maine, which leaves the country in potato raising, a campaign is in progress to increase interest in bettering the crop, grading it properly for market, and selling it to the best advantage. In Vermont livestock owners are getting together in a "better stock, better stock" effort.

In New Hampshire extension service of New Hampshire College has mapped out a program of assistance to farmers which includes detailed studies of selected farms in different parts of the state in order to point the way to a better organized farm unit; surveys of the best methods of crop rotation in order to promote soil fertility; and examination of production and cost records to determine the most profitable farm methods. Pruning and spraying demonstrations are being arranged for fruit growers.

Professor John C. Graham, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, thinks that New England should go in more extensively for poultry raising. "A great and growing agricultural production," he says, "can be based upon the hen as it can not upon any other element in our New England farming."

FARM COMMUNITY IS ORGANIZED BY
EX-SERVICE MEN

Sixteen Veterans, Trained in Agricultural Schools, Located in Mississippi

CANTON, Miss.—Sixteen veterans of the World War, trained in agricultural schools by the United States Veterans' Bureau, have been located upon farms near here by Blair Harrison, Chief of Rehabilitation for the Sixth District of the bureau, as an experiment. It is the first farming community to be established by the bureau in its effort to return to their proper station in society men disabled in the conflict.

Each veteran has been given a fully equipped forty-acre farm, facing upon a highway, and it has been arranged that he may own the property within a few years. The farms comprise part of an initial tract of 1,680 acres set aside by citizens of Canton and it is proposed ultimately to have 160 veterans in the vicinity and to have under cultivation approximately 17,000 acres of truck land.

The underlying of the venture is by the local Chamber of Commerce, which raised a fund to guarantee loans for purchased money, to construct homes and for other purposes.

Each of the first sixteen farmers has a "house egg" saved from payments made by the bureau during his period of training but part of each monthly compensation check must go toward payment for the land and other equipment furnished by the bureau and citizens of Canton.

In addition to his land each veteran will have a steadily constructed house of three rooms with two porches, one screened for sleeping. They also will have their own school at which they may continue their agricultural education and at which their children will pursue the usual school work.

In order that the farms may be stocked, the Illinois Central Railroad Company has agreed to provide pure hogs and permit the veterans to pay for them with revenue derived from increases in the hogs.

The veterans will do their own marketing on a cooperative basis.

IF RHEUMATIC
EAT NO SWEETS
-Says Glass of Salts helps to overcome Rheumatism acid.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, assist to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes, and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

STRAND TODAY
During the filming of "The Broadway Buckaroo" Miss Maryon Aye was called upon to make some very perilous rides in a buckboard. The mountaineer said at this particular spot reached a dizzy height and executed many very sharp turns. Not only that, but on one side of the road there was a sheer drop of two hundred and fifty feet. It is needless to remark that one misstep on the part of the horses would have meant crashing over the precipice to instant death. But Miss Aye proved that she is just as courageous as she is beautiful and went through her difficult performance with perfect unconcern.

"FURY"
"Fury," Richard Barthelmess' new production, has brought about the screen position of the star and brought forth who fell in love with the story of the leading lady, which was written in the hope that she could be induced to play it.

Mr. Barthelmess is supported by a notable cast, including the star of the legitimate stage, Tyrone Power; Barry Macollum, who was brought from England to play the half-witted lad in "John Ferguson"; Harry Baker, who will be remembered as having played the negro porter for three seasons in "The Traveling Salesman"; and considered to be one of the top-notch comedians of the speaking stage.

"Fury" is a story of the sea in which for a time brute strength triumphs. To get the proper atmosphere, a four-master schooner was chartered, fully equipped and was at sea for three weeks. The company roughed it in true sailor fashion, sleeping in the forecabin and in hammocks.

"Fury" will be seen at the Riviera Theater Wednesday and till Saturday.

"ADAM'S RIB"
A wholesome entertaining comedy-drama is Cecil B. De Mille's latest production, "Adam's Rib," which is playing with signal success at the Majestic Theater.

Surprising scenes include the Natural History Museum, filled with gigantic skeletons of million year old monsters, the Chicago Board of Trade, and the life of prehistoric man and a ball that marks the ultimate in De Mille magnificence.

This production, which tops any that Cecil B. De Mille has previously done, has a featured cast including Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Theodore Kosloff, Anna Q. Nilsson, Pauline Garon and Julia Faye.

RIVIERA TODAY
Bringing with it the spirit of fun and frolic with which all her regulars are so richly invested, "The Understudy" with Doris May in the star role is at the Riviera Theater today. It is Miss May's fifth production and advance reports indicate that it goes even further along comedy lines than many of her preceding subjects.

As the title indicates, "The Understudy" has to do with the stage and its people, with the adventures of a stage star's little country girl.

TAX EXPERT WITH FLYING SQUADRON
COMING NEXT WEEK

Frank S. Reagan of Rockford, Ill., to Give Unique Talk Here

An unusual "specialist" in the role of a "tax expert" will be one of the popular speakers at the coming sessions of the Flying Squadron, which comes to the Congregational church next week, under the auspices of the several civic societies, Community Council, Church Federation and Public Welfare committee.

Honorable Frank S. Reagan of Rockford, Ill., represents this important subject. Formerly a member of the Illinois legislature, he has had unusual opportunity to study the matter of taxation as it is elaborated in our several states. He is also a cartoonist, illustrating his points with graphic and rapid crayon sketches. In this manner he is able to visualize certain monotonous phases of a question which should concern every citizen. He claims to have a secret for a one-third reduction in this "white man's burden."

The three-day session of this new nation-wide movement will begin at 2:30 p. m. next Tuesday, April 10, with sessions both afternoon and evening, up to Thursday night. Among other speakers, several of whom have had numerous engagements on Chautauqua platforms, are Rev. Norma C. Brown, the only woman chaplain of the Illinois legislature, and Honorable Oliver W. Stewart, editor of the "National Inquirer," and formerly associated with the late Governor Huley of Indiana, whose staunch enforcement of law remains as a high water mark in gubernatorial efficiency in the Hoosier state.

This Flying Squadron Foundation is an independent corporation organized for the purpose of giving information upon several of the pressing and complicated modern problems of our American commonwealth. It has been meeting engagements in most of the larger cities of America for a number of years. This unusual privilege comes to our city without any advance guarantee of funds, awaiting only the approval of the public, and receiving a free will offering at the close.

VLADIVOSTOK. The Japanese cruiser Nishin, which the Soviet authorities threatened last week to blow up because of her captain's alleged transmission of wireless messages for Japanese merchants, has sailed for Japan.

Tokyo advices on March 27, telling of the complications which the Nishin Nishin had encountered in Vladivostok harbor, explained that it was understood the Japanese admiralty had ordered the cruiser to return to Japan to avoid trouble.

COMRADES LAUGH AS TWO LINESMEN ARE ELECTROCUTED

MEN AT WORK ON POLE DIE AS ENGINEER THROWS IN POWER

Laugh and Banter at their Work Unconscious of Doom

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—While Troy Hocker and Hugh Simpson, linemen for the Oklahoma Gas & Electric company, sat and spliced wires on top of a pole here Monday they exchanged good natured banter giving no thought to the time.

A few more twists, a little tape over, and there, and the day would be over.

The hands on the clock down at the power house kept past 4:40. But the men on the pole did not look at their own watches.

The engineer at the power-house planned at the clock. It was 4:57, time to throw the current into the line. He pulled down the switch that sends 2,300 volts coursing through the power circuit every evening to light the city.

The banter ceased on the pole. The bodies of Hocker and Simpson grew rigid, straining at the safety belts that held them to the pole.

These down below laughed. Hocker and Simpson were performing some new act.

Then smoke was seen to rise from Hocker's shoes. The linemen down below knew that they were witnessing a tragedy.

Down at the power house the engineer looked over his instruments. The amperage was fluctuating and the engineer knew that something was wrong.

He threw off the power. The bodies of Hocker and Simpson slumped down, swaying in their belts.

Hocker was dead when brought to the ground. Simpson was badly burned and doctors say he will die.

LEIBER TO BRING GOTHAM PRODUCTION HERE NEXT WEEK

For the local engagement of the same theatrical production and cast which was employed by Mr. Leiber in New York will appear with this young star here.

Sudermann said he and the Edizers were to have gone to Philadelphia Tuesday to lecture on the formula, but loss of the document would prevent them.

WILLIAM M. LEWIS SPEAKS WEDNESDAY AT C. OF C. LUNCH

Chief of National Chamber of Commerce Education Service Will Speak Here

William Mather Lewis, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, at Washington, who will speak before the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, April 3 at noon luncheon, is an education specialist. He is chief of the education service in the civic development of the national chamber.

Mr. Lewis has had unusual opportunities to study educational work from various angles. He has been head of a boys' school, president of a city school board, mayor of Lake Forest, Illinois, and has studied educational systems abroad.

During the war Mr. Lewis was called to Washington to aid in laying before the American people the facts in connection with this country's participation. An executive secretary of the National Committee of Patriotic Societies, he did effective work in helping to combat enemy propaganda in the United States.

He wrote the National Speakers' Library Loan book for the United States treasury department, and as civilian adviser in the morale division of the army wrote education material for the men in the front lines.

Later, he was appointed director of the savings division of the treasury department, and in this position developed the national educational campaign in thrift carried on by the government.

Articles on economic questions by Mr. Lewis have been published in the Independent, Annalist, The National Backer, Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, New York Times Magazine, New York Post Magazine. An article by him is appearing in the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Mr. Lewis has addressed chambers of commerce, city clubs and many other organizations in all parts of the country.

"MY DEAR, USE POSAM FOR THOSE PIMPLES"

This really happened—I couldn't help overhearing it. A motherly old lady dropped into the post office, a good friend of mine, and she said, "My dear, I don't know what to do about my face. I've got pimples and I don't know what to do about them. I've tried everything and nothing seems to help. I've heard of Posam and I want to try it. I just know it will help me."

Her advice was so good that I must have been in the post office at the time. I was not quite so young as she was, but I was not quite so old as she was. I was not quite so young as she was, but I was not quite so old as she was.

PROHIBITION EDICT GOES INTO EFFECT IN TURKEY TODAY

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The authorities put into effect Tuesday a delayed prohibition order in response to instructions from Ankara.

A Turkish prohibition decree was to have been put into effect on March 1, but its promulgation was postponed indefinitely, dispatches say, because of the large liquor contracts involved. The nationalist authorities last December ruled that no alcohol could enter Turkey after December 5, and that stocks on hand must be consumed before March 1.

SON OF W. R. HEARST ELOPES AND WEDS A CALIFORNIA CO-ED

MARTINEZ, Cal.—George Hearst, son of William Randolph Hearst, and Miss Rancho Wilbur, daughter of C. K. Wilbur of Idaho Falls, Idaho, eloped from the University of California at Berkeley and were married here Monday.

Both have been prominent in college activities. The couple appeared at the county clerk's office and applied for a license. Hearst gave his age as 21 and his birthplace as Washington. Miss Wilbur gave her age as 19.

The license obtained, the two hurried to St. Catherine's Catholic church, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father E. S. Olson. As the youthful couple apparently had taken no one into their confidence, it was necessary for the priest to provide witnesses. Father Brennan and Miss Mary Kane officiated in that capacity.

MICHIGAN BACK IN G. O. P. COLUMN IN MONDAY ELECTION

Entire Republican Ticket of Minor State Officers Victorious in Balloting

DETROIT, Mich.—Republican voters of Michigan "swung back into line" and "made a splendid start for the presidential campaign," Earl D. Cady, chairman of the state republican central committee, declared Tuesday in discussing Monday's election, in which the entire republican ticket of minor state officers was victorious.

The outcome, Chairman Cady declared, was a display of party harmony that was gratifying to republican leaders following the split of last November when the democrats were able to elect Woodbridge N. Ferris to the United States senate.

Mr. Ferris was the first democrat sent to the senate from Michigan since the Civil war. Possibility that another show of democratic strength might mark Monday's balloting had caused the republican leaders some concern.

While democrats found some encouragement in the election of Frank E. Doremus, former congressman, as mayor of Detroit, the republicans pointed out that the mayoralty election was non-partisan and that Doremus, always a strong candidate here, had been virtually conceded the office. Doremus won over James Winches, former police commissioner, by almost two votes to one.

The republican candidates for state offices early Tuesday continued to lead their democratic opponents by approximately three to one. In the November election this ratio was somewhat less considering the flock as a whole.

With the returns about three-fourths complete and representative of the entire state, the republicans considered certain of election were: Grant Fellows and Howard West, to supreme court; Julius E. Beal and Ralph Stone, regents of the state university; Thomas E. Johnson, superintendent of public instruction; Clark E. Brody and Herbert W. Gowdy, as members of the board of agriculture, and Allen M. Freeland, to the state board of education.

Returns available here on municipal and circuit court elections throughout the state show republicans in the lead with few exceptions where party lines were drawn. Flint apparently had elected David Cuthbertson, democrat, as mayor.

One of the republicans elected to the circuit court bench in Detroit was Vincent M. Brennan who retired last month as congressman from the Thirtieth district.

Owing to numerous local issues of importance, the vote was comparatively heavy for a spring election. Party leaders here estimated it would run about 40,000 or only about 100,000 less than that of last fall when all the more important offices were filled.

CITY OF SAULT STE MARIE PLANS SHOVELING BEE TO CLEAR STREETS OF DRIFTS

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich.—City officials here Tuesday were planning a shoveling bee to clear the streets of snow which is drifted, in some places to a depth of fifteen feet. A call was sent out for 500 citizens to arm themselves with shovels and attack the drifts, against which street-sweepers and snowplows were useless.

No end of the mid-winter weather was in sight Tuesday, the weather bureau predicting more snow and lower temperatures. Six inches of snow fell yesterday, and the temperature was thirteen below zero. This mark was sixteen degrees lower than the previous record for April established thirty-five years ago.

Reports here are that the ice in the straits of Mackinac and the Beaver Island passage is thirty inches thick. This means that with favorable weather navigation could not open in northern waters for several weeks.

Do You Wear Corselettes?

$1.00

Are You Going to Paint, Varnish or Enamel This Spring?

Here are two reasons why we can undersell

FIRST: We are located in the basement—that means cheaper rent.

SECOND: We buy on five car load basis—that means greater buying power.

Do you realize that a great many paint manufacturers tell the local dealer what he shall pay for his paint, also what he shall sell their paint for.

We have the exclusive agency of the Glidden Co. Superior House Paint and we are not handicapped with a fixed price at which to retail our paint. A reasonable profit is all we ask.

Come in and let us figure with you on your next paint job.
